

Complete Streets is making the rounds in La Crosse. City council members last week voted to create a Complete Streets ordinance. Complete Streets essentially considers all forms of transportation doing road planning. Today, county board supervisors vote on their own Complete Streets plan. Which, in the end, says county bike and pedestrian guy, Jack Zabrowski, won't make significant changes to many roads in the county. He says the biggest difference will be on the county roads that have high volumes of traffic. Zabrowski estimates about ten roads would actually be affected should county board members vote for the Complete Streets resolution tonight.
