

After a disaster, the Red Cross is always there to help. Probably sensing a level of gratitude in the community for the local chapter's help after Sunday's storm, somebody is apparently going door to door locally soliciting donations in the name of the Red Cross. The only problem is, the Scenic Bluffs chapter of the Red Cross hasn't sanctioned any fundraising effort on the heels of the storm and is warning against giving money to anyone who claims to be representing the Red Cross. However, the group asks anyone who wants to do a fundraiser to please call the local chapter first.
