

The first democrat in the race for Wisconsin's US senate seat says she has thick skin. Tammy Baldwin may need it. Republicans are calling the Madison rep, the most liberal member of congress. Baldwin says she's been called worse. But she really sees herself as a fighter and a defender of the middle class.

Next year's US senate election will replace the retiring Herb Kohl.