

Minnesota's firearms deer season opens this Saturday. Lou Cornicelli with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources says deer populations are stabilizing after the agency went through a pretty aggressive strategy of lowering densities.

Cornicelli estimates Minnesota's pre hunt deer population is about a million. Around 500 thousand hunters are expected to take part in this year's firearms deer opener.