

Walker Raises Over 5 Million For Campaign

Monday, 23 January 2012 10:42

Thanks to a loophole in Wisconsin elections law, Governor Scott Walker can raise unlimited amounts of money to defend himself in a recall election.....the typical limit for gubernatorial races is $10 thousand. Walker raised $5.1 million dollars between July 1st and December 10th. A major advantage in his recall election?

UW-L Political Professor, Joe Heim. Out of state donors accounted for almost half of the money raised so far by Walker, according to campaign finance records.
