Monday, 13 February 2012 17:43

The Wisconsin state Republican Party orchestrated the placement of fake Democrats ballots last summer, thereby delaying the general election for a month. That gave the Republican incumbents more time to campaign and distance themselves from the turmoil over the union law that they voted to support in March, spurring the recall efforts. La Crosse County GOP Vice Chair, Julian Bradley, says though it was not popular amongst voters.....

So far with recall elections possible in 2012.....Bradley says he has not heard of either side planning to do this again this summer.
