

UWL Tennis Close To Money Deadline

Friday, 23 April 2010 11:36

They're close to 'match point' in reaching a fund-raising goal...

The U-W-L tennis program has about a week left to raise money to keep the teams playing next year. Coach Bill Hehli says his program and the campus baseball team have been working together to save what they have.

Unnamed donors just gave money to U-W-L to keep the baseball team playing for several more years. The tennis teams need about 65-thousand dollars to pay bills for the next five years.
