

Shelby Youth Baseball can expect to see a bill in the mail from the city of La Crosse. The city's public works board today has voted to bill stormwater utility charges to Shelby Ball for the parking lot that the program maintains next to its ball fields on the southside. The organization doesn't pay the city to use the parking lot but the lot is almost exclusively used during baseball activities. Shelby Youth Baseball president Scott Engebretson tells us his group is unlikely to pay the stormwater utility bills from the city.
