

Are inspection fees in the city of La Crosse excessive? Some of them might be a little higher than other places, says La Crosse Area Builders Association president Jon Lautz. But, as a city committee studies the inspection fee structure over the next three months, Lautz says the simply the types of inspections are a little overboard. Like the roofing inspection and corresponding fee

Lautz says window and siding inspections also seem unnecessary to him.