

Gundersen Lutheran is now one of 17 health systems throughout the nation that has made a commitment to the Partnership for a Healthier America. This program works with honorary chair First Lady Michelle Obama and the private sector to end the childhood obesity epidemic within a generation. Jennifer Larson explains what dietary changes will be made over the next 3 years.

\(Click for Audio\)

Larson says one change started before they joined the partnership. In June 2012, Gundersen Lutheran got rid of its cafeteria's deep fryers.