

A new, ten year agreement moving forward between the city of La Crosse and an Eco-Park that's been big on conception and not so big on execution. The Myrick Hixon Eco Park's ten year agreement with the city gets an okay from the full city council. The plans--and fees--for the park have changed over the years

City council member David Krump questioning park executive director Jean Chromey at a Tuesday meeting.