

Park Plaza Plans Move Forward

Tuesday, 11 June 2013 21:21

A rough sketch. That's about where a planned development for the Park Plaza property on Barron Island in La Crosse is. There is some acknowledgment among the La Crosse city council that more details are needed for the site but the council has agreed Tuesday to move forward with rezoning plans for the site with an eye towards filling in the blanks at some point in the future. Developers will have to come back to the city council with more refined plans in the future. The county has already reached an agreement to sell the property to a developer for 800 thousand dollars.