

Two Onalaskas in one county may be one too many...

The co-existence of a city of Onalaska and a town of Onalaska has caused some confusion for decades. Now, the town is aiming to become a village...and if that happens, the new community will be called the 'Village of Midway.' Sandy Thompson of the town board says Midway is a popular choice among townspeople.

Now, the task of circulating incorporation petitions will begin. Town leaders hope to get about 15-hundred signatures, but they only need 50 in all.