Divers are being sent to the Dresbach lock and dam, to look for a man who's missing after a morning tugboat accident...

The man was among three people from Wisconsin on the tug when it reportedly lost power and got caught in the dam around 6 a.m. The other two crew members were rescued. No rescuers have gotten inside the tugboat yet to search for the missing person. Part of the river surrounding the dam in Winona and Houston Counties has been shut down to boat traffic while the search effort continues.
