

Gundersen's leader is also a champion. Dr. Jeff Thompson, CEO of Gundersen Health System, is in Washington today collecting a Champions of Change award at the White House. The award comes largely for Thompson's work to move the health system to energy independence by next year. A major effort that involves more than just him, says Thompson

\(Click for Audio\)

Among the benefits that come from energy independence, says Thompson: lower health care costs.