

Mooning Nets Man Ticket

Monday, 15 July 2013 11:47

Plenty of drunken revelry this week-end in La Crosse. And lots of tickets getting written because of it. A bar time fight between gangs of young men nearly got out of hand on third street. Some arrests and disorderly conduct citations came out of that one. One guy was yelling homosexual slurs at two cops from across the street on third and main at bar time on Saturday. Turned to his buddy and said, "watch this." And then dropped his drawers, exposing his buttocks. At which point he was ticketed. First question from the mooner: "How much is this going to cost me?" The answer: 177 bucks.