

US News and World Report magazine is out with their top colleges list again. And this year they included the top 39 schools of all who provide exceptional undergraduate research and creative project experiences to their students.

Chancellor Joe Gow says UW-L joins a list of very prominent universities on that list.

\(Click for Audio\)

For the 13th straight year UW-L is listed as the number one comprehensive university in the UW System; and this year they've moved up to the number three position among public regional universities in the Midwest.