

The UW-L campus this weekend will, to administrators and police, be a somewhat peaceful place like it was last year during Oktoberfest. Unlike two years ago.....

\(Click for Audio\)

The infamous tossing of the squirrel turned into a street filled party then eventually saw a car being overturned and several arrests being made. Chancellor Joe Gow says one big rule change last remains in effect this year.

\(Click for Audio\)

Gow attributed the peace last year to outreach and campus based activities as well as the beefed up presence of hall directors and resident assistants in the dorms.