

A La Crosse woman, who was sexually assaulted while in the Army, was center stage while U.S. Senator Tammy Baldwin and other Senators discussed this growing problem on the senate floor Tuesday.

\(Click for Audio\)

Baldwin says that no charges were ever brought against the man who assaulted her. Baldwin joined with other female senators from both sides of the aisle Tuesday to change the way these crimes are tried in the military. It's all a part of the National Defense Authorization Act