

The 16 applicants for the Tomah Police Chief job will have to wait just a bit longer. This after the top candidate who was offered the job, turned it down. Doug Reims, the police chief in Westworth, Texas has withdrawn his acceptance of the job due to personal reasons. Now, the police and fire commission can do one of two things. They can look at three other candidates who made the final cut or start the entire process all over again. Chief Wes Revels retired last year and is now a candidate for Monroe County Sheriff.
