Governor Scott Walker appointed Monroe County Assistant District Attorney Kevin Croninger to serve as the new District Attorney, filling the seat following the death of Dan Cary in November.

Calling him a rising star in Wisconsin, Walker said Croninger has led with strength and wisdom in a difficult moment, and he's confident Croninger will carry forward Dan Cary's legacy as a prosecutor who is committed to enforcing the law and the serving the community.

Croninger began his legal career as an assistant district attorney in Juneau County. He joined the Monroe County District Attorney's Office in April 2011.
