

Leaders of the Town of Campbell seem to be eager to put a police controversy behind them quickly...

For the third time this month, the Campbell town board is meeting tonight, and again, the chief of police is the main topic of discussion. The board's agenda says a closed session will review the activities of Chief Tim Kelemen...especially charges that he plotted to harass a Tea Party activist who's suing the town. The agenda says dismissal, demotion, and discipline are possible options for the board to consider. Kelemen was put on leave just over a week ago, and the Monroe County D-A is still weighing possible criminal charges against him.