

At the end of the fiscal year in Monroe County, taxpayers will see $2 million thrown back into the general fund. All due in part to County Administrator, Cathy Schmitt. And that's just the beginning. Since Schmitt took the position a year and a half ago.....Monroe County has implemented a new finance department.....cost controls in other departments and a conservative 2011 budget. So why would she want a job in Adams County?

Family. And though the position there would have gotten her closer to them, Schmitt says she just felt it was right to stay in Monroe County.

And though her family is scattered throughout the state, Schmitt notified Monroe County earlier this week that she is staying put. Schmitt says she will continue to perform her job in the capacity for which she was hired.
