

A Lacrosse woman was sentenced to 50 months federal prison time Friday, for her role in a Meth making operation. 27 year old Amber Johnson joins her husband, Travis, as both being sentenced now. He got 90 months last week.

In April of last year, police served a search warrant on their Lacrosse home, and found liquid Meth in jars along with the materials to make Meth.

A federal judge told Johnson that she deserved more time in the pen for the fact that she was making Meth in her home where her two children also lived and they could have been harmed.

4 police agencies were involved in the Meth bust.
