

High schools have football teams. They've got volleyball teams. Even quiz bowl teams. Now La Crosse's Central High will have a LEGO team.

Trane company and Logistics Health are donating ten thousand dollars to Central for the school to start a LEGO team. FIRST Lego League is an international robotics program designed for 9 to 16 years olds. Teams build and program various robots using the LEGO robotics kits.

Teams then participate in competitions where the robots are required to complete various challenges and courses.
