

Before any frac sand mining permits are handed out, the City of Winona wants to make sure the public understands exactly what the mining is all about....both positive and negative. And County planner Jason Gillman says there are some concerns out there.

On the positive side, Gillman says job opportunities and economic growth are two of the bright spots. A public hearing on the matter will be held in Winona next month.