

Looking to retire? Maybe do it somewhere else. In its annual list of ten worst places to retire, the website TopRetirements.com has listed Wisconsin and Minnesota among the stinkers. Among the factors cited for being on the ten worst for retirees, the website says Wisconsin, at number ten, has ridiculous property and income taxes. For Minnesota, number seven on the list, the site mentions high income taxes mostly due to the absence of any pension or social security exemptions. Property taxes are high. Also, the weather's a factor; winters can be harsh in Minnesota.