

206 million people watched a pair of eagles on the internet last year....and their stories have been heard worldwide. WIZM'S Dan Deicher has more on the Decorah Eagle Cam.

The eagles gained international attention last year when people watched the hatch and fledge of three eaglets over live streaming video. It is run by the The Raptor Resource Project They have two cameras fixed on their nest, offering a live stream 24 hours a day. Yes I watched it for several hours last year as many did....but not for the reason Bob Anderson gives us.

As millions more get ready for the hatching of more eagles in a couple of weeks.....Anderson says it will continue to be seen in schools...nursing homes....Iphones....and yes...probably by me again.
