Wolf Hunt Coming to Wisconsin Tuesday, 03 April 2012 09:59 -

It's not going to open season on wolves in Wisconsin. But a wolf hunt is coming. Governor Walker this week signed a law that allows it. The point is not to take a bunch of wolves through a hunt, says Bob Welch, who represents groups who support a wolf hunt, but to discourage some not-so-friendly wolf behavior around humans

A recent federal de-listing of the gray wolf across the upper midwest has states moving to manage wolf populations through hunts and other methods.