

Who Has Whitehall's Million Dollar Tickets?

Monday, 16 April 2012 11:45 -

It's the talk of the town in Whitehall today...

Guessing who bought two tickets for the weekend Powerball drawing, worth a million dollars each. Both tickets were sold at the Cenex store on Main Street in Whitehall, and Cenex manager Beth Manka says some customers claim to have inside information on who won.

Nobody has come forward to claim either ticket. Manka says she has no way of confirming whether one person bought both tickets that matched five out of six lottery numbers. The winner or winners have 180 days to pick up the prize money.