Getting baked meant doing some actual baking for an accused drug dealer in La Crosse on Friday. Friday was 4-20, known in marijuana circles as a kind of holiday. Police say it was a 4-20 party that they busted at about three o'clock Friday morning. Through a thick, marijuana haze in the apartment, cops noted several bongos and pipes still smoking, along with pot cupcakes, two kinds of pot cookies, and loaves of bread with pot baked inside. Six pounds of baked goods in all. In a bedroom safe, they found about a half pound of pot and about 4400 hundred dollars in cash. Several people got tickets, three guys arrested including 21 year-old Kyle Murphy who faces serious charges for drug dealing/
