A wanted man, captured. La Crosse police have been looking for Frederick Lompfrey IV for weeks. He's suspected of being responsible for several burglaries in the city. Last night, cops spotted Lompfrey riding in a car on the northside, stopped the car and then chased Lompfrey down when he took off on foot. Among the crimes Lompfrey is wanted for are a couple of rip-offs in which he apparently targeted some friends and took their electronic equipment, presumably to pawn for cash.
