

La Crosse IT Director Resigns

Tuesday, 13 April 2010 12:45 -

The city of La Crosse won't have to worry about firing its embattled IT director. Because David Montealegre has quit. Mayor Matt Harter tells us that Montealegre has resigned as of April 7th. Jacky Kallberg is the department's acting director. Harter says he doesn't want to fill the director's job until a city council approved audit of the department has been completed.

The council has recently approved spending thousands in auditing IT. Montealegre faces federal fraud charges in connection with a bankruptcy filing from years ago.
