

So who will spend the most money on the next batch of elections? Joe Heim, Political Professor at UW-La Crosse, says expect advertisements from a major statewide race to come first.

He says there will be some quiet time between August and October but with the presidential race right around the corner from that span.....get used to seeing and hearing them again.