

Van Hollen to Ready Voter ID Appeals on Two Fronts

Thursday, 19 July 2012 09:49 - Last Updated Thursday, 19 July 2012 09:50

Wisconsin's attorney general will launch another appeal on the state's voter ID law. This one comes after a second Dane county judge ruled the law unconstitutional. That means attorney general JB Van Hollen will be working on two appeals in a court system that's not moving very quickly to deal with those appeals.

Van Hollen spoke with reporter Mitch Reynolds.