How this guy walked away from this accident, cops are still scratching their heads over. But a 67 year-old La Crosse guy is indeed walking and has collected tickets for knocking over a traffic light pole on the southside of the city early Tuesday morning. Told cops he was rubbing his eye when he drove into the light pole. He took off afterward. A witness saw the whole thing. The guy collected tickets for inattentive driving and hit and run. The offending vehicle? An '87 Honda motorcycle.
