

Remember when Governor Walker invited lawmakers of both parties to a cookout after the June recall election?

He's doing the same sort of thing during the football season, bringing Democrats and Republicans to the governor's residence to tailgate before a ball game. Onalaska rep Steve Doyle is on the guest list this Saturday, for a party to watch the Badgers play against Utah State. Democrat Doyle doesn't expect a lot of political talk at that party. but he is encouraged by Walker's efforts to bring members of the two parties together. Doyle tells us he has been trying to promote bipartisanship since joining the Assembly last year.