

Minnesota legislators are getting ready for the start of the 2013 session today. The state budget, which shows a deficit, will be the top priority for the session. That according to Senator, Jeremy Miller.

\(Click for Audio\)

The House, the Senate and the governor will have to agree on a state budget plan and pass it by late May. Miller, of Winona, says spending reductions and tax increases will again be part of the discussion.