

When Wisconsin Governor Scott Walker releases details of his budget next month the Republican leader says it is reasonable to expect a tax cut he will propose to amount to about 342 million dollars. He says the state's tax brackets are in line with other states.

\(Click for Audio\)

Walker says the tax reduction he is backing would come out to about a 200 dollar savings per family, but he says details are still being worked on to determine how the cuts would be applied to the various income levels.