

Unity House Loses Drugs in Theft

Monday, 28 January 2013 15:44 -

A treatment house for substance abuse is the latest target for thieves looking for prescription drugs. La Crosse police say the Unity House on the northside was ripped off for 18 thousand dollars worth of prescription narcotics. Cops say the break-in occurred while an attendant at the house was taking Unity residents to an addiction counseling meeting on Saturday. The thief apparently knew what he was looking for; he went right to a locked box where the drugs are kept and took the whole thing. A crowbar was left behind at the scene and swabbed for DNA but, so far, no suspects.
