

Home Sales Surge in January

Tuesday, 19 February 2013 07:13 -

Home sales in La Crosse county sharply increased again last month. Although December sales were off a little from the year before, January sales in the county were up more than 22 percent from January of last year, according to a report from the state realtors association. Median prices also jumped by over 18 percent to just about 154 thousand dollars. Home sales for the state also jumped in January by just over 18 percent while statewide median prices edged up by just over three percent.
