

Suspected Drug Dealer Cornered by Brutus, Arrested

Monday, 06 May 2013 12:17 -

Among the many drunk drivers facing charges this week after a week-end stop in La Crosse, one was corralled with the help of a police dog. Cops had to sick Brutus the drug dog on a guy who led an officer on a foot chase after he was stopped for drunk driving. Police knew they had the guy when they heard Brutus barking and growling. They say 57 year-old Patrick Henke is not only on his fourth OWI in five years, he was also carrying several bags of marijuana that police suspect he intended to sell.
