

Steve Carlyon is hoping that a bandshell moving operation won't break the bank. The La Crosse park and rec director believes he might be shooting a little high to estimate costs of a moving and reconstruction of the Riverside Park band shell at two hundred thousand dollars. And he's talking complete restoration. To original specs

\(Click for Audio\)

Carlyon says there are plenty of steps before any reconstruction can occur. including finding an area in the park that's out of the floodway.