

Guilty on both counts...

That's the verdict today in the Cain Moss homicide trial. The jury needed only two hours to decide that Moss was responsible for the drug death of Tony DuCharme in the summer of 2011, and for dumping DuCharme's body on a hillside. Moss is the last of four defendants in the case to be convicted. He'll be sentenced on September 19th. The trial began on Monday.