

An accused drug dealer is probably kicking himself for not buying a bike light. La Crosse Cops say Lencardo Thompson was trucking along on his bicycle at about two this morning on Jackson street. Cop says Thompson's hat blew off and, when he turned around to retrieve it, the cop stopped him for not having a light. And then found out he was violating probation by drinking. At the jail, they found four baggies of crack in Thompson's hat and over four hundred dollars in his pocket. They busted him for the probation violation, crack dealing, and a warning for missing a bike light.