

It's not our business. That's what Wisconsin's Tammy Baldwin said on the Senate floor Tuesday night as she remains adamantly opposed to the use of military force in Syria.

\(Click for Audio\)

Baldwin says the Obama Administration hasn't proven an American national security interest or a clear strategy for success. Obama has asked Congress to postpone voting on military action against Syria while a possible diplomatic solution's in play.