

Book Booked Again

Tuesday, 23 November 2010 11:11 -

The last time Indra Book was in court, a La Crosse county judge made it pretty clear: If he saw her again, she was likely going to prison. We'll see. Book, the 23 year-old woman who was convicted in the death of her infant daughter three years ago, has been in trouble for probation violations since her release from a halfway house earlier this year. Just days after getting a stern warning from judge Scott Horne about the path of rule-breaking she was traveling, Book's been busted again. This time for missing a breath test and for having synthetic pot in her purse.